The Model Extends Greeting

To the City's Guests This Week.

We cordially invite the thousands of strangers who wil be in St. Louis for the Fair, and to witness the annual pilgrim age of the Veiled Prophet, to visit this exceptional clothing store, to see our grand electrical illumination each night, and to avail themselves of all or any of our public conveniences, such as telephones, reception rooms, directories, information bureau, and checking department for parcels, free of any charge.

The Model is one of the most interesting sights of St. Louis-a store devoted to the retail selling of Men's and Boys' Dependable Ready-to-Wear Clothing exclusively, occupying over 40,000 square feet of floor space, with 200 feet of great plate-glass show windows, having backs of natural oak and art glass, lighted at night with 40 arc lights and over 3,500 incandescent lamps, including the largest electrical signs in the world. A store strictly modern in every feature, doing a cash business, without discounts or discrimination, and selling the best apparel made in America at the lowest prices obtainable anywhere.

Strangers should visit The Model without fail, regardless of whether they wish to purchase anything, for to go through the store will be a lesson in modern merchandising. All will be cordially welcomed.

To our home folks and visitors alike we call particular attention to our complete facilities for supplying full and semi dress outfits and all dress accessories, for the Veiled Prophet ball or any formal or informal function. We have Full Dress Suits, Tuxedos and Prince Albert Suits for men and young men, in all grades up to the finest silk-lined, faultlessly tailored, at about half tailors' prices. Also Tuxedo Knee Pants Suits for the little men, and everything else for their proper attiring.

The light exhibits a finsh every five seconds, and the concentrated intensity of each flash is such that the new Lizard light is said to be more powerful that any other lighthouse light in the world. It is expected that the increased power of the light will enable it to be seen a greater distance, even when the atmosphere is dimmed by haze.

The light will now show also more effectually to eastward vessels and westward-bound craft will find it easier to keep clear of the dreaded Manacle's rocks and the outlying dangers of Lizard Point.

J. P. MORGAN RETRENCHING.

London Art Dealers Bitterly Disappointed in His Comparatively Insignificant Purchases.

SPECIAL BY CARLE TO THE NEW YORK HERALD AND THE ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC London, Oct. 1.—(Copyright, 1901.)—I have the best authority for stating that a re-port that Mr. Joseph Chamberlain is like-ly to visit the United States early in the new year is without foundation. It was stated that the former Colonial Secretary ad received an invitation from associations of manufacturers throughout the United States to deliver a series of adfresses on the policy of encouraging home industries, and it was added that his presence would be a strong card for American manufacturers, who were alarmed at the growth of public feeling against trusts. The following comment was made on this by the Daily News:

"He may go, but we have not a doubt that if, when in the United States, he attempts to take part in a political discussion on tariff, the supporters of the tariff will restrain him by physical force if nec-

"What about Joe" was the cry heard in he course of Mr. Balfour's speech at Sheffield Thursday night. This query was called forth by the Premier's declaration that so long as he was the leader of the party he meant to lead it.

The comments of the provincial as well as the London papers on Mr. Balfour's speech were not flattering, even his strongest supporters in the press sounding a note of disappointment. The Sheffield vidience gave the Fremier a good reception, but the app auss evoked by the mention of Mr. Chamberlain's name was much Punch's political cartoon this week attracted a good deal of notice because of its unusual sting. Mr. Chamberiain was represented as a ventriloquist, with Baifour as a lay figure on a chair a little in the rear. "Ladies and Gentiemen," said Chamberiain, who held behind his back the strings which worked the dummy, "you see, he can talk just as well when I go away from him."

But many things are being gathered by dealers and put aside in anticipation of Mr. Morgan's next visit.

Some of the society papers have been describing the doings of a large party, which was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin at Balmacaan, Scotland One of them says that, unlike some great ladies, Mrs. Bradley Martin does not think it necessary to appear in a provincial ballroom in beauty unadorned, but, on the coutrary, decks herself in magnificent fashion in her famous jewels and twinkles and glitters all over with sapphires, rubles and long chains of diamonds. The same paper tells the following story:

The same paper tells the following story:

"At Balmacaan, as in many country houses, it is a convenient custom to affix cards on the bedroom doors, inspribed with the names of guests. Visitors last autumn were rather tickled when they observed on a certain portal the consplcuous legend, 'Right Honorable Viscount Uffington,' His Lordship, who is the grandson of Mrs. Bradley Martin and the son of the Earl and Countess of Craven, at that time had just passed his third birthday."

Mrs. Parkinson Sharp has let No. 10 Unlace Gate for the season to Mr. Have-lock Calvert, who made a fortune in the construction of railways in Argentina.

The mansion in Cariton House Terrace, which has been bought by Mr. Anthony y. Drexel, has a delightful outlook over St. James Park. It is suggested that the locality should be called United States Terrace, as so many Americans are to be found there, among them being, in addition to the American Ambassador, Mr. W. W. Astor, Mrs. John W. Mackay and the Duchess of Mariborough The lastnamed, however, has let her house for a time to Lord Revelstoke.

The Duke and Duchess of Manchester are visiting their newly acquired property, Kylemore Castle, Connemora. They arrived with a party of friends on a big eighty-horse-power automobile from Banderagee Castle.

As a residence, Kylemore Castle has been regarded as too remote from rall-roads or civilization generally, but the development of automobile traveling will do away with this drawback. The roads in the neighborhood are excellent.

to whether Englishmen do really eat too much.
One correspondent sums up the discussion as follows:
"It is within the experience of every one that small enters often live long and large enters finish their careers at fifty or sixty. Yet there are exceptions in both classes. There's one public man who eats like a giant, and frequently begins dinner with a draught of stout and after consumes a bottle of champagne. Surely this is a startling state of affairs to contemplate, especially when it is considered that until the past decade but little or no attention was given to the treatment of this malady as a spensity.

The facilities of the standard American Medical Colleges seemed to place little importance in the cure of this disease, and it was placed in the same category with other life-sapping maladies, which are too much neglected and too carelessly included in the general lectures to students on general surgery.
